

To my loving friend, Mr. Willingham, at his House in Swithin's Lane: These.

'London, February, 1640.'

SIR,

I desire you to send me the Reasons of the Scots to enforce their desire of Uniformity in Religion, expressed in their 8th Article; I mean that which I had before of you. I would peruse it against we fall upon that Debate, which will be speedily.

Yours,
OLIVER CROMWELL.
